ABOUT THE FOUNDATION

One cancer. One mission. A lasting impact.

Alveolar rhabdomyosarcoma is a rare and aggressive form of cancer that primarily affects children, teenagers and young adults. Despite its severity, awareness remains limited and there is an ongoing need for greater understanding, collaboration and progress in diagnosis and treatment.

The Harry Kazmi Foundation is a UK registered charity dedicated to improving the lives and future prospects of young people affected by alveolar rhabdomyosarcoma. We are building a focused, ambitious foundation that brings together science, research collaboration, education and advocacy to help advance understanding of this disease and improve outcomes for those affected.

WHAT WE DO

Science
Advancing understanding of the molecular biology of the disease.

Research collaboration
Connecting scientists, clinicians, researchers and patients.

Education
Raising awareness of symptoms and the importance of earlier diagnosis.

Advocacy
Amplifying the voices of young people and families affected.

INTERNATIONAL COLLABORATIONS AND ACTIVE MEMBERSHIPS

The Harry Kazmi Foundation works in active collaboration with leading international oncology and sarcoma organisations, and holds active memberships and partnerships with the networks shown above. Through these relationships we share knowledge, connect with specialists and contribute to the global effort to improve outcomes for young people affected by alveolar rhabdomyosarcoma.

OUR VISION FOR 2027

2027 represents an important opportunity to build momentum and accelerate our ambitions.

We are developing initiatives focused on scientific knowledge, AI-enabled research intelligence, global collaboration and improved understanding of alveolar rhabdomyosarcoma. With the support of corporate partners, we want to build a stronger platform for awareness, collaboration and progress.
